CUBA SUGAR CROP AND ESTIMATES

Eastern Expert Discusses Prospects—Not Over
1,397,500

The most exact information that can be obtained on the Cuban sugar crop is contained in the following from a leading sugar man in the most intimate touch with the market conditions in the East and Cuba:

In their last circular, Czarnikow, Macdougall & Co. say:

"We have just received a cable from Cuba intimating that Messrs. Guma-Mejer estimate the crop of 1908-9 at 1,397,500 tons."

As a matter of fact, Guma-Mejer estimate nothing of the sort. They say that they estimate there is CANE enough to produce that much sugar. Last year is the only year that we remember when Guma-Mejer estimated the amount of SUGAR that Cuba was going to produce. As the crop was so very short it was a practical certainty that all the cane in the island would be harvested. Their last year's estimate was 1,165,000 tons, which proved to be 17 1/2 per cent too high. In 1906-7 their preliminary estimate reads "Cane enough to produce 1,500,000 tons." Notwithstanding the fact that this crop commenced very early, that weather conditions were unprecedently favorable for harvesting and that all the cane in the island was ground, they were 73,000 tons too high. In 1905-6 their estimate was "Cane enough to produce 1,400,000 tons." The actual output was only 1,179,000 tons, or about 16 per cent less. During 1904-5 weather conditions were abnormally bad for harvesting. The estimated quantity of cane in the island is the same this year as it was three years ago, so it will be reasonable to say that the crop should exceed the figures of that year, i. e. 1,179,000 tons. As Guma-Mejer never were known to make an under-estimate, their figure of 1,397,500 tons can be regarded as the absolute maximum. Between these two figures the actual output of the Cuban crop will very likely be. It all depends on what kind of weather they have between now and the middle of June, and there is no use trying to guess that.

GREAT IS HONOLULU

You are having a very natural growth and there are not the first signs of what you might call a boom of the old-fashioned style.

"I am here with my family and shall remain in the city a week before going to the other islands on a trip that combines business and pleasure. We did not have a very smooth trip down, but it was not the fault of the steamer. The weather was rough throughout the trip, but we had a good time just the same.

"Honolulu is all right. It will be a great city before you know it. The securities of Hawaii are high class and stand on that level in every market. My partner, Mr. Pollitz, sends his regards to his many friends in the city. He thinks just as I do about these islands. You will find outsiders buying in this market. They are doing it now."

The Inter-Island steamer Claudine, which arrived early this morning from Maui and Hawaii ports, brought the following cargo: One roller, 59 sacks of bones, 26 boxes, 30 packages of empty bottles and 146 packages of sundries.

Matters Is Again
Taken Up

One of the most important matters brought to the attention of the trustees of the Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, was a petition, signed by the firms of Alexander & Baldwin, Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company, C. Brewer & Company, Haleakala Ranch and others, asking that the harbor of Kahului be surveyed, deepened and improved for the benefit of the shipping. In order to meet the necessary requirements, it was decided to request the Delegate to Congress to use his best effort to secure an appropriation for the purpose.

A report from the Committee on Harbors and Transportation was presented, stating that the removal of the marine railway from the present site would involve great expense, as it held vested rights. The committee, therefore, recommended that it be left as it is.

The same committee recommended that the Delegate be asked to secure from Congress $500,000, for continuing the work of improving the harbor of Honolulu.

A number of communications from various sources were read. One of these was from President-elect Taft acknowledging the receipt of congratulations sent him by President Morgan of the Chamber of Commerce.

Morgan announced the appointment of the Pearl Harbor celebration committee for 1912. He further announced that W. H. Hooks had succeeded W. E. Brown as a member of the Promotion Committee.

Mr. Spaulding thought he had a kick coming against the press for not, as he claimed, having made correct reports of the proceedings of former meetings. He said that they should be more careful in the future.

Present at the meeting, besides President Morgan and Secretary Wood were J. F. Hackfeld, F. M. Swaney, E. E. Paxton, E. I. Spaulding and Richard Ivers.

At the close of the entertainment next Saturday night for the benefit of the Italian Relief Fund there will be a short, snappy comedy sketch by talented members of the Dramatic Circle of the Kilohana Art League. "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone" is interesting all the way through, with a good laugh in every line. The part of Mrs. Oakley, a five months' bride, is taken by Miss Whitford with almost professional ability; Miss Marion Green is very natural and convincing as Constance, who is in love with the best man, and Mrs. Montrose Graham, as Emma, is charming. Miss Springs does exceptionally well as Mary, the cook, who gets things and people mixed, though she has been able to attend only two rehearsals on account of illness.
